

Weekly Update – Team Tech-N-Effect

April 22, 2014

The members of our team have spent the last two weeks finalizing our Prezi for DDS and sending the link for the Prezi to colleagues for feedback. During our face-to-face meeting we developed a short assessment survey to gauge the learning/change of attitude of learners viewing our Prezi. We are receiving feedback from our pilot test group and are addressing suggested changes.

A member of our group also developed a very creative PowerPoint template that each of us is using to complete our final project presentation piece. It coordinates perfectly with our wiki page. Our major stumbling point is that none of us seem to like to hear our own voices on the recordings;)

We held a session on Collaborate last evening to go over the final pieces, and to check in with one another to see if anyone needs help with anything, and to make sure we are on ready to meet our self-imposed deadlines. This week we are putting the final touches on our contributions to the group paper and our final presentation. Looks like we are in the home stretch!

Janel Koellner, communicator
Team Tech-N-Effect